

Family violence is any behaviour that in any way controls or dominates a family member and causes them to feel fear for their own, or another family member's, safety or wellbeing. It can include physical, sexual, psychological, emotional or economic abuse tany behaviour that causes a

If a family violence safety notice or intervention order is made against you, it may exclude you from your home. The person who the notice or order is made to protect is known as a ' under that notice or order.

You can be from the rental property if one or more of the following is made against you:

- family violence safety notice (issued by the police)
- family violence intervention order (issued by a court)
- personal safety intervention order (issued by a court).

The protected person then has the right to the property.

•

If the locks are changed:

•